ADDOR is pleased to announce a further grant in support of the continued fight against Huntington's disease (HD), providing financial assistance to help an HD sufferer Pamela McElroy.

Pamela McElroy

Pamela is single aged 27 and lives in Calderdale, West Yorkshire. She was diagnosed with Junior Huntington's disease at 20 years old, inheriting the HD gene from her father, who inherited this tragic disease from his mother.

She enjoys watching television and spending time with her cat.

Pamela struggles to manage her own finances and as a result has found herself in financial difficulties.

Action is being taken to help Pamela in the future, for example looking at the appointment of a Power of Attorney and an increased care package to include support with financial and personal affairs.

With the concern at Pamela's increasing debts and her worry about being able to afford food this month, she agreed with her HDA representative to approach ADDOR to see if they could provide a grant of £300 to help Pamela.

ADDOR is very pleased to provide a grant of £300 to help Pamela at this worrying time.

If you would like to help in the fight to defeat HD, fund research projects and help others like Pamela.
